

Hegel and the Circle of Sciences

III German-Latin American Congress on Hegel's Philosophy

Commemorating the 250th Anniversary of the Birth of Hegel

FILORED

19 - 23 October 2020 / Lima and Cuzco, PERU

CALL FOR PAPERS

The commemoration of the 250th anniversary of the birth of Hegel provides an ideal opportunity to discuss Hegel's groundbreaking interpretation of the meaning, task, and systematic structure of philosophy. The event will focus on philosophy's relationship with other forms of human knowledge, especially with those considered scientific endeavours. Hegel famously claimed that philosophy should no longer be "love of wisdom", but rather become "real knowledge" or "science". According to the dialectic of thought-categories and of particular scientific methods, the entirety of knowledge ought to develop into a "circle of circles", centred on philosophy and philosophical sciences, but also open to dialogue with other disciplines.

The III German-Latin American Congress on Hegel's Philosophy aims to debate the current relevance of Hegel's project. Hegel's thought resonates nowadays not only in many fields of philosophy, but also within the ongoing epistemological debates of other sciences: in the awareness of the historicity of thought, in the social dimension of rationality, in our understanding of the history of art or the history of philosophy, in the critique of the principles of modernity, or in the foundations of a postmodern age.

To date the following speakers have confirmed their participation: Agemir Bavaresco (Porto Alegre), Mariano de la Maza (Santiago de Chile), Jorge Aurelio Díaz (Bogotá), Héctor Ferreiro (Buenos Aires), Luis Eduardo Gama (Bogotá), Miguel Giusti (Lima), Max Gottschlich (Linz), Thomas Sören Hoffmann (Hagen), Stephen Houlgate (Warwick), Lore Hühn (Freiburg im Breisgau), Luca Illetterati (Padua), Jean-François Kervégan (Paris), Christian Krijnen (Amsterdam), Gustavo Leyva (México), Gilles Marmasse (Poitiers), Fernando Moledo (Hagen), Hardy Neumann (Valparaíso), Angelica Nuzzo (New York), Theodoros Penolidis (Thessaloniki), Hernán Pringe (Santiago de Chile), Mario Rojas (México), Konrad Utz (Ceará), Klaus Vieweg (Jena), Martín Zubiría (Mendoza).

The Congress is organised by the German-Latin American Research and Doctoral Network in Philosophy (FILORED). We invite the international philosophical community to participate and submit proposals in one of the three official languages: German, Spanish and Portuguese. We will exceptionally accept papers in English, French, or Italian.

Themes and Sections:

- Section I: Hegel and philosophical knowledge
- Section II: Hegel and the science of logic
- Section III: Hegel and the history of philosophy
- Section IV: Hegel in the context of classical German philosophy
- Section V: Hegel and the natural sciences
- Section VI: Hegel and the human sciences
- Section VII: Hegel and law
- Section VIII: Hegel and the philosophy of history
- Section IX: Hegel and art
- Section X: Hegel and religion
- Section XI: Hegel and the plurality of knowledge and its forms
- Section XII: Hegel and his critics

Conditions for the submission of papers:

1. The email with the proposal must include the following information: (a) first and last names, and academic degree, (b) title of the paper, and the name of the section in which it would be presented, (c) academic affiliation and contact information, (d) curriculum vitae (300-500 words), (e) indication of whether the speaker will participate in both venues (Lima and Cuzco).
2. Please attach to the email a file (Word or PDF) with the title of the paper and an abstract (800-1000 words). Each speaker will have 30 minutes available (20 minutes for the presentation and 10 minutes for discussion).
3. Deadline: June 1, 2020. The results of the assessment of proposals will be made public by June 30, 2020.
4. Registration fee: speakers and general audience: 150 soles (40 euros / 45 US dollars). Students: 75 soles (20 euros / 22 US dollars). Payment and registration will be carried out through the Congress' web page.
5. Please send your proposal to the following address: hegelperu2020@pucp.edu.pe

For up to date information on the III German-Latin American Congress on Hegel's Philosophy visit:

<http://congreso.pucp.edu.pe/hegel/>
<http://cef.pucp.edu.pe/>
<https://www.fernuni-hagen.de/filored/es/index.shtml>
cef@pucp.edu.pe; fernando.moledo@fernuni-hagen.de

